There is a Greek legend about the lost island of Atlantis. Over 10,000 years ago there was an island in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean. It was a perfect place, a paradise, where people were rich and powerful.

This was the land of Poseidon, god of the sea. Poseidon fell in love with Cleito and built a beautiful house for her. She had five twins – ten boys. They became the first rulers of Atlantis. Atlas was the first king.

People began slowly to change. They became greedy and wanted more and more things. Zeus decided to punish them. One day, there was a storm and the island sank. Atlantis disappeared.

Some people today think that it never existed. Other people go on journeys to find the lost paradise.

Atlantis isn't in the Atlantic Ocean.

On Easter day in 1722 a Dutch captain discovered a beautiful island in the South Pacific. He named it Easter Island.

There were about two thousand natives on the island. But the strangest things were the large stone heads. Their faces were enormous with very long ears. Some statues had hands and some wore hats. They were a complete mystery.

Nobody knows who the builder was. Even the natives don't know the answer.

Today Easter Island is a very interesting place. The local people are very friendly and the landscape is amazing - with its volcanoes, beaches and brilliant blue water.

Easter Island was discovered in the 17th century.
